Scripture: Genesis 1. 1 – 5; Mark 1. 4 - 11 (NRSV)

Our lives are constantly being taken apart and put back together. And whether we see it descending upon us like a dove or not, the Spirit is a constant companion throughout our lives. It is what inspires us to love and serve and learn and grow. It is what equips us to be a part of the body of Christ in unique and powerful ways. It is what tears us open to new ways of living, new ways of being.

SUNDAY 17th

2nd Sunday after the Epiphany -Series: “Follow Me!”

11:00 AM “Live Streaming” Worship Service
Message: “Anything Good”
Scripture: I Samuel 3. 1 – 10; John 1. 43 – 51 (NRSV)

Are we doing all right on our own? Most of the time, we think so. Most of the time, we are content with the world as it is, with our lot in it. Most of the time, we are grateful that things aren’t any worse than they are. And the Word of the Lord is rare most days.

We want someone to know us, all our weaknesses and strengths, all our beauty and ugliness; to know us and love us still.

It almost sounds like fantasy, doesn’t it? Such knowledge, such love is not possible in this world, a world where the Word of the Lord is rare. So, we bury such thoughts, in quiet desperation behind the facade of being all right, of not needing anyone or anything. Can anything good come out of Nazareth? Or anywhere for that matter?

SUNDAY 31st

4th Sunday after the Epiphany - Series: “Follow Me!”

11:00 AM “Pre-Recorded” Worship Service
Message: “Tom Marvolo Riddle’s “Horcrux” &
What Have You to Do with Us?”
Scripture: Psalm 111; Mark 1. 21 – 28 (NRSV)

It was a question afraid of change, a question to a greater power than self. Ultimately, it is a question of surrender followed by transformation. We ask if Jesus has come to destroy us, destroy our lifestyle, destroy our image of ourselves, our self-confidence, our self-dependence.

That there are powers and principalities in the world over which we have little power seems undeniable.

But what does that and what do demons have to do with worship? We proclaim that there is help available. We worship a power and a presence greater than all that is broken around us and within us.

But every now and then, we catch a glimpse of something larger, something deeper and more profound."
