February 9. “Effective local climate actions” with Richard McCann, energy consultant and founding partner, M.Cubed Consulting. Many local governments create climate action plans including Davis and Yolo County, but their efforts seem to hit a pause when they need to jump into action. There are several reasons for this including wishful thinking about how citizens will participate, misunderstandings about the relative magnitudes of effectiveness, and an unwillingness to invest both money and political will. We will discuss and highlight where these plans might focus most effectively.
